Day 07 – Salta | Trip to the Clouds | Purmamarca

We travel in the same direction as the famous Train to the Clouds, zigzagging on lonely roads between the blue sky and the Puna. On our way, we visit magnificent ruins, scattered houses, small villages and amazing landscapes.

OK, we have to start early because it's going to be a long day. That's why we leave Salta at 7:00 am and quickly reach the small town of Campo Quijano and later the impressive Quebrada del Toro, where we stop for a coffee break. Soon we leave behind the vegetation and start to be better acquainted with the solitary Puna. In Santa Rosa de Tastil, a pre-Inca city of the XIII century, we do archeological hiking. Later, we reach San Antonio de los Cobres, a small miners' town rich in tradition.

Farther ahead, a desert plateau will take us to the surreal landscape of the salt plains, where we stop again to walk around and enjoy the contrasts.

In the afternoon, we return through the overwhelming Cuesta de Lipan and arrive at the Seven-color Hill in Purmamarca, a landmark on its own.. Accommodation 4* for 1 night with breakfast.

Day 08 – Purmamarca | Humahuaca Gorge | Salta

Towns and relics of ancient cultures, superb mountains and the feeling of being in timeless places are the exquisite elements of this trip through the Humahuaca Gorge.

The small towns of Tumbaya, Purmamarca, Maimará and Tilcara open up their ancient charm to our captivated eyes. In Purmamarca, we stop to see the famous Seven-color hill, in Tilcara, we visit the Pucará (fortress) and the Archeological Museum, while in Uquía we stop to admire the local church. But it's in Humahuaca where we revel in the extremely peaceful atmosphere, the typical colonial architecture and the charming people. In our way back we also visit San Salvador de Jujuy to get to know its monuments and intriguing legends. Let the history behind the walls and stones of these places take you on a ride to the Argentinean past!
